

DCRAC Low Income Tax Clinic

Helping you find the right resolution

The DCRAC Low Income Tax Clinic has one major job: to provide legal representation to income-qualifying taxpayers who have a legitimate problem with the IRS, all for free. We do not prepare taxes.

How does it work?

If the IRS believes that someone owes money, they are allowed to take that person's money or property in a number of ways to resolve the debt, which makes it hard to keep good credit.

DCRAC's mission is to help you come to a resolution with the government that works with your real life circumstances.

If money isn't owed, we can help you get the misunderstanding resolved with the IRS.

If money is owed, we can help you reach affordable payment agreements or help with the settlement of debt (OIC).

Examples of frequently resolved issues:

- Helping audited taxpayers prove that they qualify for their claimed deductions and credits
- Assisting married couples when one partner owes money, yet both parties face "joint debt"
- Recategorizing employees as "workers" instead of "independent contractors" (a category that often leads to tax debts)

About DCRAC

DCRAC is a nonprofit working to transform financial lives for Delawareans through advocacy, education, legislation and outreach. Since 1987, they have operated with the mission to ensure equitable treatment and equal access to credit and capital.

DCRAC provides all services at low or no cost without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, gender, familial status, disability, age, creed, source of income, marital status, or sexual orientation. Please contact us for accommodation requests.

DCRAC Low Income Tax Clinic receives financial support from the IRS, Capital One Foundation, and Sussex County Council. Volunteer attorney Jim Angus and several students help meet our match requirement.

The clinic, its employees, and its volunteers are not affiliated with or endorsed by the IRS or its employees. As our potential client, your decision to obtain representation from us will not result in the IRS giving your case a preferential treatment in handling the dispute or problem nor will our representation affect your rights before the IRS.
